19	Encouraging cultural diversity – (using case of India as a Nation-state)
	The Indian Nation-state is socially and culturally one of the most diverse countries of the world.
	It has one of the largest populations speaking multiple languages (dialects).
	It consists of multiple religions, plural in beliefs and practices.
	In terms of Nation-state's relationship with community identities, the Indian case fits neither the "assimilationist" nor the "integrationist" model.
	The Constitution declares the State to be a secular state, but religion, language and other such factors are not banished from the public sphere.
	By international standards, very strong constitutional protection is offered to minority religions.	1+1+1+1

Q.24	Explain the structural tensions faced by men and women in matriarchal societies.	6
	OR
	What are the factors behind the assertion of tribal identities today?
24	Structural tensions faced by men and women in matriarchal societies -
	Matriarchal form of family refers to the "authority and dominance "lying with the woman .
	However, in reality it is Matriliny which is seen to exist among the Khasis of Meghalaya.
	The woman inherits the property from her mother but does not exercise control over it; nor are they the decision makers in public affairs.
	The authority and control goes from maternal uncle to nephew and the inheritance from mother to daughter.	1 each
	It creates a role conflict for the male members as they are torn between the responsibilities of their natal household and that of his wife and children.
	There is an apprehension in the minds of the wife and sister of the man; with regard to his commitment to their welfare.

Q. 25	Read the passage given below and answer following question:	6
	Data from the National Sample Survey studies of 1999-2000 and from the 2001 Census of India reveal a sharp fall in the rate of employment generation (creation of new jobs) across both rural and urban areas. This is true for the young as well. The rate of growth of employment in the 15-30 age group, which stood at around 2.4 percent a year between 1987 and 1994 for both rural and urban men, fell to 0.7 for rural men and 0.3 percent for urban men during 1994 to 2004. This arbarritori, for to the faratriori and oro percent for arbarritori adming for the 200 in time suggest that the advantage offered by a young labour force is not being exploited. Strategies exist to exploit the demographic window of opportunity that India has today. But India's recent experience suggests that market forces by themselves do not ensure that such strategies would be implemented. Unless a way forward is found, we may miss out on the potential benefits that the country's changing age structure temporarily offers. a) What is demographic dividend? b) Do you think that India is indeed facing a window of opportunity created by demographic dividend?

25	PASSAGE – a) Demographic dividend –	2
	It is a benefit flowing from the changing age structure - caused by a larger proportion of "workers" relative to "non-workers (dependants) " (15 yrs to 64 yrs).
	(b) Providing employment – effective utilization of this working –group. One of the youngest countries of the world – young labour force. Temporary phase – young population of today will become old and non-working (dependant) therefore needs effective planning.
