S.No	Warrants Case	Summons Case
1	A warrant case relates to offences punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term greater than two years.	A summons case means a case relating to an offence that is not a warrant case, i.e. cases relating to offences punishable with imprisonment of less than two years.
2	The CrPC provides for two types of procedure for the trial of warrant cases by a magistrate: -those instituted upon a police report -those instituted upon complaint. In both cases, if the accused is not discharged, the magistrate holds a regular trial after "framing the charge".	In summons cases, there is no need to frame a charge. 23	Comment upon the evolution of legal aid in Criminal Law in India with relevant case laws. Ans: 1. Section 340(1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, provided that if a man was charged with an offence punishable with death, the court could provide him with counsel upon his request. This was subjected to a twisted interpretation by the Supreme Court by classifying it as a privilege rather than the duty of the magistrate in Tara Singh v. State (1951 AIR 441).	2+2

	2. India in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, facilitated statutory implementation of free legal aid subsequently. Section 304(1) provides that: In a trial before the sessions judge, if the accused has not sufficient means to engage a pleader, the court should assign a pleader for his defense at the expense of the State.
24	For adoption of International Treaties into domestic law, UK and India follow different practices in accordance with their legal provisions. a) State the practices followed in UK and India. Ans: In the United Kingdom, there is a doctrine of transformation that states that before any international agreement can be considered applicable domestically it must be transformed into municipal law. This means that the provisions of the treaty need to be transformed into local law, passing a domestic legislation with concurrent provisions as the international obligations. India has dealt with the interplay of international law as fits the need of the day. While any restriction of rights requires the need for an amendment by legislature, enhancing or broadening the scope of such rights is allowed as long as there is nothing to the contrary or similar in domestic law. India generally follows that merely affirming a treaty by way of ratifying it by the assent of the executive is sufficient, unless the treaty requires ratification by way of an act of the legislature. b) With reference to Maganbhai Patel v/s Union of India, explain how the Supreme Court of India implemented this practice. Ans: There has been an evolution of the philosophy of the role of international treaties to which India is party to with relation to the Indian Constitution. In the case of Magan Bhai Patel v Union of India, the Supreme Court held that if a treaty or international agreement restricts the rights of the citizens or modifies the laws of the state, it would require to have a legislative measure. E.g. If India is a party to an international agreement to stop the killing of a species of turtle, it restricts the right to trade of certain fishermen by prohibiting killing of the turtle. If this treaty is to be enforced in India, the Indian Parliament needs to pass a domestic legislation regarding prohibition of the killing of	1+1=2 2 such turtle species. If no such right is restricted then it does not need to have a legislative measure to enact it or give rise to some weight in domestic law in the treaty.

25	The 14th law commission report under the chairmanship of MC Setalvad raised the concern about the tussle between executive and judiciary in the matter of appointment of judges. How was this tussle attempted to be resolved through the three judges cases? *A series of three judicial decisions popularly known as the Three Judges Cases helped in the development of the modern collegium system. *The first Judges case (1981) gave primacy to the Executive and stated that the CJI's recommendation to the President can be refused for cogent reasons. It gave vast powers to the Executive for the next 12 years, in making judicial appointments. *This however was modified in the second Judges case (1993).The executive element in the appointment process was reduced to a minimum and political influence eliminated.The years that followed thus witnessed some confusion in the process of appointment as CJI made some unilateral appointments and the role of the President was reduced to a mere approval. *Later in 1998, the Supreme Court in a Presidential reference (1998 advisory decision) emphasized upon the role of 'consultation' and held that the process of appointment of Judges to the Supreme Court and the High Courts is an 'integrated participatory consultative process'. OR Differentiate between Attorney General and Advocate General. <table><tr><td>ATTORNEY GENERAL</td><td>ADVOCATE GENERAL</td></tr><tr><td>The Attorney General is the first legal</td><td>According to Article 165 of the Constitution,</td></tr></table>	ATTORNEY GENERAL	ADVOCATE GENERAL	The Attorney General is the first legal	According to Article 165 of the Constitution,	1X4=4 1X4=4

28	Why are customs a disputed source of international law? Ans:1. International custom generally refers to a State practice, but only such practice as is accepted by the States themselves as legally required. Once a certain practice is understood to be customary law, States are obliged to act as the rule of customary international law prescribes. This description of International custom has been criticised for its exact formulation. 2. According to Article 38 of its Statute, the International Court of Justice 'whose function is to decide in accordance with international law such disputes as are submitted to it,' has to apply, inter alia, 'international custom.' 3. This source of public international law is described, in the same Article, as 'evidence of a general practice accepted as law.' 4. International customary law is probably the most disputed and discussed source of international law. The reason for this is that it is not clear when a particular State practice becomes a legally binding State practice. It is also unclear how one can identify a rule of international custom, or how one can prove its existence.	1X4=4

	Ans: Mr. Ramakant is entitled to compensation as decided in the case Carlill V. Carbolic Smoke Ball Co. In this case, the company was the manufacturer of a medicine called smoke ball which was used for the treatment of influenza. The company believed that the medicine completely cured influenza. An advertisement was put up offering a reward of 100 to anyone who got influenza again after using the smoke ball medicine continuously for fifteen days. In the advertisement, it was also stated that 100 pounds was deposited in a Bank, namely, Alliance Bank for paying the reward if such situation arose. Seeing the advertisement, Mrs. Carlill bought the smoke ball medicine and used it as per the directions provided. Mrs. Carlill got a fresh episode of influenza. Mrs. Carlill sued the company for the reward of 100 pounds. The manufacturing company stated that: (1) there was no intention to enter into a legal relationship with anyone through the advertisement, and the advertisement was put up only to boost the marketing of the smoke ball medicine; (2) the advertisement was not an offer as it was not made to any particular person and an offer cannot be made to the public at large or to the whole world; (3) acceptance by the offeree had not been communicated, and so there was no binding contract. The Court rejected these contentions of the company and allowed Mrs. Carlill's claim for 100 pounds. 1.The Court also stated that deposit of 1000 pounds in the Alliance Bank by the smoke ball company was evidence that the company had real intention to enter into a legal relationship with anyone who accepted the offer. 2.An offer can also be made to the world at large. It is called a general offer and it is valid. In the case of general offer, there is no need for communicating acceptance to the offeror. 3.Merely fulfilling the conditions of the offer itself is treated as acceptance to create a contract. In the case in question, Vidya Bharti Appliances made a general offer which is a valid offer, and Mr. Ramakant, by fulfilling the conditions of the offer, accepted it. Hence there was a valid contract, and Mr. Ramakant was entitled to compensation.

Fairness in executive action *In matters of executive or administrative actions, judicial review practice of courts have often employed doctrines like 'principles of natural justice', 'reasonableness', 'proportionality', and 'legitimate expectation *There is a Latin phrase audi alteram partem, which literally means 'listen to the other side'. This phrase is an established principle in the Indian law practice and was applied by the Supreme Court in several cases including the landmark decision of Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India. *To deal with the questions of secrecy and related inefficiency and corruption in the administration, courts have adopted the judicial method of requiring disclosure of reasons in support of any order or decision delivered by the administration. *The courts have often used the principle of reasonableness in most cases that involve state action. The realm of contract law offers an example. *Another principle frequently utilized by courts in administrative law, especially in service matters, is the principle of proportionality. Essentially, judicial review offers safeguards to the aggrieved against any sentence or punishment that is disproportionate and burdensome.
